Unique Aspects of Iceland's Engagement with UNCSW and Gender Equality

- Comprehensive Legal Framework: Iceland takes gender equality seriously, and you can see that commitment right in its Constitution. It clearly states that men and women should have equal rights and that the government has a responsibility to ensure those rights are put into practice.
- Institutional Mechanisms: The Directorate for Equality and the Centre for Gender Equality play a crucial role in advancing gender equality in Iceland.
- Gender Mainstreaming Approach: Iceland is really stepping up its game when it comes to gender equality, putting legal measures in place and working hard to weave gender perspectives into different areas of policy.
- High Representation of Women in Politics: Iceland stands out for having a significant number of women in political positions, showcasing the country's commitment to achieving gender equality in political representation.
- Active Participation in UNCSW: Iceland consistently contributes to UNCSW sessions, submitting national reviews, delivering statements, and engaging in side events to share best practices and learn from other nations.

- Commitment to International Frameworks: Iceland makes sure its national policies are in sync with international commitments, like the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW) and the Beijing Platform for Action.
