Unique Aspects of Mexico at UNCSW

| Aspect | Description |

| Feminist Foreign Policy                    | Mexico took a bold step in 2020 by adopting a feminist foreign policy that puts a spotlight on gender equality, intersectionality, and human rights in its dealings on the global stage. |
| High Female Political Representation       | As of February 2024, women held 50.4% of the seats in Mexico's parliament, showcasing the country's commitment to achieving gender parity.                                               |
| Focus on Indigenous Women's Rights         | Mexico is all about championing the rights and empowerment of indigenous women, which really aligns with the UNCSW's mission to support marginalized groups.                             |
| Comprehensive Gender Equality Legislation  | Mexico has put laws in place to tackle issues like gender-based violence, promote political participation, and boost economic empowerment.                                               |
| Active Participation in UNCSW Sessions     | Mexico consistently plays an active role in UNCSW sessions, where it shares both its achievements and the hurdles it faces in the journey toward gender equality.                        |
| Integration of Gender in National Policies | Gender perspectives are woven into Mexico's national development plans and policies.                                                                                                     |
| Commitment to International Conventions    | Mexico has signed on to CEDAW and is committed to reporting on how it's putting the convention into action, showing its dedication to meeting international standards.                   |
