Strategic Research Framework

PHASE 01

Country Profile

- Government Structure: Understand the political system and key decision-makers.
- Economic Indicators: GDP, major industries, trade partners.
- Military Capabilities: Defense budget, alliances, peacekeeping contributions.
- Political Ideology: Domestic and foreign policy orientations.

PHASE 02

Agenda Analysis

- Issue Definition: Clarify the topic's scope and relevance.
- Historical Context: Key events leading to the current situation.
- Stakeholder Mapping: Identify involved nations, organizations, and groups.
- UN Involvement: Past resolutions, missions, and debates.

PHASE 03

National Positioning

- Official Statements: Speeches at the UN, press releases.
- Voting Records: Analyze patterns in UNGA and UNSC votes.
- Treaty Participation: Ratifications, reservations, and objections.

PHASE 04

Alliance and Opposition Identification

- Allies: Countries with shared interests or voting patterns.
- Adversaries: Nations with conflicting policies or historical tensions.

Position Paper Excellence

Structure:

- Topic Background: Brief overview and significance.
- Past International Actions: UN resolutions, treaties, and initiatives.
- Country Policy: National stance and rationale.
- Proposed Solutions: Specific, actionable recommendations.
- Formatting Tips:
- Length: 1-2 pages, single-spaced.
- Font: 12-point Times New Roman.
- Citations: Use parenthetical citations and include a bibliography if required.

Speech Crafting with the DEI Formula

DEI Formula:

Data: Present compelling statistics or facts.

Emotion: Connect with the audience on a human level.

Impact: Highlight the consequences and urgency.

Speech Structure:

Hook: Start with a question, quote, or startling fact.

Distinction Tip: Use power phrases like:

"Let us not forget..." | "This committee cannot afford silence on..." | "As a responsible global actor..."

Context: Briefly outline the issue.

Position: Clearly state your country's stance.

Solutions: Propose realistic and relevant actions.

Conclusion: Summarize and call for collaboration.

Example Opening:

"Honorable Chair, esteemed delegates, the plight of refugees has reached unprecedented levels, with over 70 million displaced globally. As the Republic of Kenya, we have firsthand experience hosting refugee populations and believe in shared responsibility. We propose a tripartite framework focusing on resource allocation, infrastructure development, and international cooperation."

Building Alliances and Identifying Opponents

Alliances:

- Shared Interests: Economic ties, regional blocs, cultural similarities.
- Voting Patterns: Consistent alignment in UN decisions.
- Joint Initiatives: Participation in the same international programs

Opponents:

- Conflicting Policies: Divergent views on key issues.
- Historical Disputes: Past conflicts or tensions.
- Competing Interests: Economic or strategic rivalries.

Strategies:

Engage Diplomatically: Seek common ground even with adversaries.

Form Blocs: Collaborate with like-minded countries to draft resolutions.

In unmods, don't just float—lead the group. Call people by country name, suggest sections, divide tasks.

Form a WhatsApp/Signal group for your bloc—sounds simple, but boosts coordination.

Push your bloc's paper to be the first to submit—timing matters.

Distinction Tip: Offer to write the preamble or edit clauses—this gets your name on top of the doc and control over content.

Use Language Tactfully: Avoid confrontational rhetoric; focus on policy differences.

Professional Attire and Presentation

Dress Code:

Men: Dark suit, white shirt, conservative tie, polished shoes.

Women: Business suit or formal dress, minimal jewelry, closed-toe shoes

Gaining Positive Attention from the Chair

Active Participation:

Speak Early: Volunteer for opening speeches.

Use Motions Effectively: Propose moderated/unmoderated caucuses when appropriate.

Demonstrate Leadership: Guide discussions and resolution drafting

Professional Conduct:

Respect Rules: Adhere to the committee's procedures.

Distinction Tip: When you fix a RoP confusion calmly, chairs remember you.

Collaborate: Work constructively with other delegates.

Stay Informed: Keep up with the debate and contribute meaningfully.

Consistent Engagement:

Participate throughout all sessions.

Distinction Tip: Be the one who smooths conflicts between blocs or delegates. Everyone respects a peacemaker.

Quality over Quantity: Make impactful contributions rather than frequent, less substantive ones.

Feedback: Seek input from the chair and peers to improve.
